

the director's cut

► A NEW SERIES CELEBRATING THE ART OF THE FILMMAKER

David Mackenzie

In Conversation with Alan Marcus

One of Scotland's leading film directors, David Mackenzie, won awards at the Berlin Film Festival for both Hallam Foe (2007), set in Edinburgh and starring Jamie Bell and Sophia Myles, and his film, Asylum (2005), featuring Natasha Richardson and Sir Ian McKellan. His psychological thriller, Young Adam (2003), starring Ewan McGregor and Tilda Swinton, is one of the most important films made in Britain in the last 50 years, winning a Scottish BAFTA for Best Director. His latest film, Spread (2009), shot in the States is being released this summer.

The event is co-hosted by the Research Institute of Irish and Scottish Studies, followed by a reception hosted by Scottish Screen.

6:00pm, Wed.
25th March 2009

King's College Conference Centre
University of Aberdeen

Free and open to the public Make your booking at:
www.abdn.ac.uk/directorscut